JASON THE WRITER

“In 2020, when COVID shut down everything, my industry was largely affected by that because we couldn’t produce anything. I had just finished writing a feature-length screenplay at the time that I was really excited about, and then the whole world shut down. And I was thinking, ‘How can I continue my creative outlets in a situation that’s pandemic-proof?’ And it almost felt like the character himself Jericho Cutter walked into the room like ‘Hey remember me?’”

“I wanted to tell a story that featured a character that looked like me as the lead character, a Black man as the lead. Through this sci-fi backdrop, I was able to infuse some real-life experience as far as the journey of a Black man in America, things that we’re up against, the things that we experience, and the things that make us who we are culturally. I wanted a way to infuse that in this sci-fi space.”

Independent Publisher and Production Company
Odd Ninja Media

Jason's Production Company Odd Ninja Media released “Jericho Cutter” as its comic debut. It was important to Jason to merge the sci-fi genre into a comic, and place a Black man living in America as the lead.

“Jericho Cutter” is about a man who has no memory of his existence and has to work toward recollecting memories to tap into his superpower and save the world from the very same oppression organization hunting him down.
